E: dpkg was interrupted... run 'sudo dpkg --configure -a'

36

I was running an upgrade with the apt-get command, and it was taking an exceptionally long time because half way through my ISP hit me in the face with their fair usage policy.

After sitting outside & watching the rain for awhile my electronics regained consciousness, so I went back to complete the upgrade and my terminal scolds me with

"E: dpkg was interrupted, you must manually run 'sudo dpkg --configure -a' to correct the problem."

The last bit of legible info was all this:
